A Correction.

By some sort of an accident the case of Fullerton vs. Menkenmiller was yesterday said to have been continued on the motion of the plaintiff. This was an error, the continuance being on the motion of the defendant and at his costs, and the reason assigned being that he was ill with the grip and could not appear.

Yesterday's Police Court.

In the police court yesterday John Kioves was fined $20 and costs for selling liquor on Sunday. Maggie Baker was fined for disorder, but the sentence was suspended on her promising not to get drunk again. J. H. Fauble was fined $5 and costs for renting a room to be used for gaming. Officer Lukins testified that he had by instruction of the chief warned Fauble that if he rented a room for that purpose he would be prosecuted. When Gray was given the usual $20 and costs, and two girls and two men found in her house $5 and costs each. Two young fellows for fighting also got $5 and costs.

David Neiswanger Dead.

A special dispatch to the INTELLIGENCER from Kansas City, received last night, announces the death of David G. Neiswanger of malignant diphtheria, at the age of sixty-three. Mr. Neiswanger was an old resident of St. Clairsville and one of a numerous family of pioneers there. Members of his family formerly kept hotel there and ran an omnibus line to Wheeling in opposition to the line run by Lewis & Woodmansee, who afterwards ran the Grant house, in this city, when it was the leading hotel of Wheeling. Mr. Neiswanger's death will cause general regret among a wide circle of friends in Belmont county.

In the Circuit Court.

In the circuit court yesterday in the case of Solomon B. Prettyman vs. Albert L. Wells, an order confirming the sale of the property by Special Commissioner Guy R. C. Allen, was entered and the proceeds ordered distributed.

The case of the John Church Organ Co. vs. William Emblem, on appeal, was put on trial to a jury. Judgment for the defendant was found in this court, the judgment of the lower court being reversed and set aside.

In the case of Nellie Clifford vs. Minnie Evans, on appeal, the plaintiff was called, and not appearing, the judgment of the court below was reversed and set aside, and the plaintiff required to pay the costs.

In the case of George E. Kurner & Co. vs. Hess and McMullen, the jury returned a verdict of $200 for the plaintiff. A motion to set aside the verdict was set for hearing Saturday, January 30.

"The Still Alarm."

Joseph Arthur's famous play, "The Still Alarm," was presented at the Opera House last night to a fair-sized audience. It was in all respects satisfactory as a presentation as the last time it was here. Several of the members of the cast are the same, and the others are, if not changed for the better, certainly quite as good as before. Mr. C. Markins as Jack Manley is better than Harry Lacy ever was, and would be better still if he would lose sight entirely of the way Lacy used to do the role and do it as common sense dictates. Miss Nelson was very acceptable as Elmore. The rest of the cast was entirely satisfactory. The piece will be repeated this evening.

Newspaper Enterprise.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

SIR:—I regret to notice, as I have frequently, that you fail to give your evening contemporary credit for the enterprise it shows in obtaining the news ahead of all competitors. To-day I find in my copy of that sprightly paper the following:

The death of the Duke of Clarence and Avondale, the death of Cardinal Manning, and the death of Cardinal Simeoni, were the three important events in the Old World yesterday. All of these were covered by the News telegraphic service and laid before its readers twelve hours before the heightened subscribers of other journals in this city learned of them.

Now, it strikes me that there was a rare bit of enterprise shown by this evening paper in making special arrangements with the Duke of Clarence and the two cardinals by which they should die just at the time they did. Had they postponed their deaths until late in the afternoon the morning papers would have given the news in advance of all evening contemporaries. But, thanks to the News's enterprise, they were persuaded to die early in the day.

Of course, I admit that there are such trifling things as an occasional railroad accident, a disastrous fire, or the death of a great man, &c., at night or late in the afternoon, and these of course are heralded first by the morning papers, but neither the Register nor the Intelligencer has ever had the enterprise to arrange with a duke or a cardinal to die after their evening rival has gone to press.

I feel like admiring the morning papers for printing the most complete news from all parts of world and the latest happenings in the city and the world at large up to a late hour at night, but I cannot help blaming them for allowing the duke and the cardinals to die at 9 o'clock in the morning instead of at 9 o'clock at night, as they should have done.

COUNCIL AGAIN FAILS

To Get a Quorum—Policemen Sent Out Unable to Find Any Members.

The special meeting of Council, called to dispose of the routine business left undisposed of by the failure to hold a regular meeting last Tuesday, occupied some time last evening in getting down to work. The first branch had a quorum early; the presidents of the Second branch sent out Sergeant-at-Arms Wilkie to arrest and bring to the chamber sufficient members to constitute a quorum. In about ten minutes Mr. Maxwell was brought in by the sergeant-at-arms. The latter reported that Mr. Maxwell was the only member he could find.

"Call in the other officers," said President Jepson, "and send them out after two more members." Mr. Maxwell moved to adjourn, but was declared out of order. Mayor Seabright, who had adjourned the first branch for a recess while the second was trying to get a quorum, and was looking on, explained that important business was to be transacted. Council was to decide whether it would go in cahoots with the county in building election booths. Sergeant-at-Arms Wilkie came back and reported that he had notified by telephone the policemen on the different beats to search for absent Councilmen and bring them up to the building. It was suggested that Councilman Brock might have locked himself into his office at Speidel & Co.'s, and one policeman was sent to Speidel's and one to Mr. Brock's house. Just then Councilman Hoge was brought in, having been captured by a policeman. Another policeman came in after awhile and said that Mr. Brock could not be found.

The clerk then read rule 50, which provides that, when Council is unable to secure up a quorum, it may adjourn to a stated time and compel the attendance of absent members. A motion to adjourn to Tuesday evening was carried, and the second branch adjourned, the first branch having already done so a little earlier in the evening.

The committee on streets, alleys and grades met early in the evening in City Engineer Hoge's office, and passed the grades made necessary by the work done by the Terminal company in the neighborhood of Caldwell's run.

Balls Last Evening.

The Ravine reading room boys gave a benefit ball at the new Vigilant engine house last night, which was largely attended. The affair was a decided success in all respects.

The Iron Molders' Union gave a ball in Turner hall last evening, which was one of the most successful events of the kind seen there this season.

Pray For a Freeze.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Jan. 15.—The recent storms have caused a great downfall of rain in the region of the upper eastern tributaries of the Ohio river and its headwaters, and a midwinter flood is now coming. The tide from Pittsburgh will be reinforced by the outpouring of the Little Kanawha at Parkersburg, which last night was rising on its whole course and was nineteen feet at Parkersburg. Lumber companies have already had losses. At this point the river will probably reach forty-five feet by Monday, but a general thaw would put it much higher.

NOTES ON NAVIGATION.

Stage of Water and Movements of Boats, The River Interests.

The river was stationary last night, with 30 feet of water in the channel.

The reports from above were:

Morgantown—15 feet 6 inches and falling; weather, clear and cold.

Brownsville—23 feet 3 inches and falling; weather cloudy and cool.

Pittsburgh—The rise in the rivers which yesterday threatened a flood here ceased this morning. At noon the river was falling with 22 feet in the channel. The damage done in this city by the high water was slight.

The steamer Congo will pass up for Pittsburgh from Cincinnati at 10 a. m. to-day.

Two steamers will pass up for Pittsburgh to-morrow, the Keystone State and the Ben Hur.

Yesterday was a dull day on the wharf. The C. L. & W. transfer steamer, Lizzie Townsend, was the only boat that turned a wheel.

M. A. BLAIR, alderman, Fifth ward, Scranton, Pa., stated November 9, '83: He had used Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil for sprains, burns, cuts, bruises and rheumatism. Cured every time. DAW
